Just lately, students and faculty are a bit of the same: stressed. It's not a surprise, really. It's just a fact of life.

For many, the stress is coming from the fact that they are going to school. It's not a surprise, really. It's just a fact of life.

It is a common and generally true statement that the more you know, the more you can do. This is especially true in the case of the human mind, which is a complex and powerful tool. The more you learn, the more you are able to understand the world around you and the more you are able to create and innovate. This is why it is so important to continue to learn and grow throughout your life. The more you know, the more you can do.

When we are going through difficult times, it may seem hard to believe the good will ever find. Sometimes things seem like the only answers to problems. People who have experienced this might feel hopeless, depressed or in bad luck in all things in their lives. If you are thinking that life is unbearable, or you are worried if a friend may be suicidal, there are some answers, ideas to consider.

- [illegible]

If you suspect that a person may be suicidal, ask them about it, encourage them to share what is happening with them. Talking about suicide with someone does not spread suicide. It only shows that someone cares about what they are going through.
